Add Levity to Your Holiday Meal With Christmas Dinner Bingo

Want to relieve some of the stress of the holidays and put a smile on everyone's face. How? Try Holiday Bingo! You may have heard about Meeting Bingo, where you track all the tired business clichés...”at the end of the day, teambuilding, thinking outside the box, metrics, etc” (and thanks to About.com, someone's already figured out how to use this to teach you how to be a better manager), but if you haven't tried Christmas Dinner Bingo, you're missing a big opportunity!

Roasted Fennel

For someone who normally dislikes anise and licorice, the Accidental Locavore is a huge fan of fennel. When there was fresh fennel as part of the CSA, I grabbed a couple of heads, not really knowing what I would do with them. Since I was home alone with the last of Gabriel Rucker's great rabbit sausage, I thought that something simple with the fennel would be a nice accompaniment. Easily multiplied, this fed one. Make a batch for a holiday side dish, it can just go in the oven unattended.
