Dear Friend,

It's not often you get to see inside a Presidential Suite, never mind having a specially prepared dinner there. See below for our amazing last dinner in Croatia. Then, to get back on the recipe track, a great version of creamed spinach!

I bet you have at least one friend who would enjoy this newsletter. It's easy to sign up here. Or you can click the icons to send to a friend, Twitter, Facebook, or LinkedIn.

Enjoy!

A Presidential Dinner

Following the tour of Golf Adriatic, the Accidental Locavore and company went on to explore the Kempinski Hotel Adriatic. Entering the recently built hotel, the lobby is a big open expanse with an inlaid floor and many chandeliers. Downstairs is a large and luxurious spa, with a host of top-notch services. After touring a standard room and junior suite (both lovely, with lots of high-end finishes and the latest in electronics), we went up to the top floor to the white

Presidential Suite (the other one, at the opposite end of the hotel is the Black Suite). Read more:

Creamed Spinach With Garlic Confit

The Accidental Locavore thought this version of creamed spinach would be great with a roast beef I cooked recently. I love garlic confit, it's great for so many things (toss with broccoli or spinach, salad dressing etc), and since you just use the cloves for this recipe, I tossed some extra in the oil (my new hack for peeling a lot of garlic is at the end).
