Maison Kayser: Is There Anything Better Than Butter?

Butter...does anything smell better than butter cooking? The Accidental Locavore is standing outside Maison Kayser, the new NYC outpost of a famed Parisian bakery. Getting in the mood for lunch there, I was so engrossed in my French tapes that I totally missed my bus stop by two long avenues! Now, I'm standing outside, waiting for my friend to join me for lunch, breathing that wonderful smell of butter -- specifically, French butter

Poulet Grillé à la Diabole (Grilled Chicken With Mustard)

One of the reasons the Accidental Locavore loves to cook is because you get to try all the interesting recipes that cross your path. Often, the most difficult part is figuring out that age-old question, "what's for dinner?" Today, I had an edge; Frank wanted chicken, roasted chicken, so I had the perfect excuse to pull out an old favorite Julia Child recipe for poulet grillé à la Diabole. It's a recipe I used to make all the time, easy and tasty. It brings into play a little-used part of the oven, the broiler.

Passionate About Theater?

Theater for the New City is having a benefit on October 11th. It's a great opportunity to see what goes on behind the scenes at an off-Broadway theater. Chat with the playwrights over drinks, dinner and then take your pick of current performances. Click here for more information:
