Accidentallocavore®

Dear Friend,

Sound familiar? You've been out to a well-reviewed restaurant and come out shaking your head. "What were they thinking?" Here's my take on it.

This week's recipe is a little ambitious and needs to be started ASAP, but it's a must-have at our Christmas dinner and not hard, just needs time to sit around (like the rest of us!).

My friend Sue gave me a beautiful poinsettia and it's this month's calendar.

If you know anyone who is into food and fun, please ask them to sign up for the newsletter and get a treat every Tuesday. Or you can click the icons above to send to a friend, share on Twitter, Facebook, or LinkedIn.

If there's anything you'd like to see more (or less) of, you can always let me know by replying to the email or commenting on the blog.

Enjoy & Happy Thanksgiving!

Anne

Pete Wells and Restaurant Reviews

The Accidental Locavore was reading about the restaurant reviewer for The NY Times, Pete Wells, in The New Yorker.

According to the piece, before he writes a review he goes to a restaurant at least three times.

Does it work that way in your life?

Read More:

Christmas Pudding

Christmas pudding is like fruitcake—same candied fruit, (more) booze, and a limited number of fans (mainly U.K. residents and expats).

And, like fruitcake, someone must be eating it or it wouldn't show up on store shelves.

Get the recipe:

December Calendar

This beautiful poinsettia is perfect for the holiday season! After you click on the download link, right-click and "save as desktop backgound".

Download the Calendar:

Calendar

Accidental Locavore Live!

If you missed this week's show, you can catch up on our homepage.

Moday we're talking about food waste, an important issue this time of year and something we should resolve to work on in 2017 and beyond.

Tune in at 5:00 EDT Mondays. www.pawlingpublicradio.org or listen anytime on our homepage.

Accidental Locavore

PO Box 1289 | Pleasant Valley, NY 12569-1289 US

