

Dear Friend,

Please enjoy this week's newsletter and pass it on to a friend. Let us know what you think of the recipes, and how you like the newsletter. Click the little envelope at the top right corner to send to a friend, Twitter, Facebook, or LinkedIn.

And have a wonderful holiday! I loved this Santa head on the side view mirror of the fire truck on Amsterdam.

Holiday Wishes Fulfilled; Cooking on a Pink Himalayan Salt Block

A few weeks ago, on my holiday wish list, was a request for a pink Himalayan salt block to cook on. My aunt sprang into action, went into the Meadow, armed with a copy of the list, and came out with a beautiful block that looks like a piece of rose quartz. From what I understand, it was quite a big deal, picking the exactly perfect block, and she came through with flying colors. Not to mention schlepping it halfway across town.

Recipe for Warm Melting Chocolate Cakes

Since the Accidental Locavore has been on a chocolate theme lately, here's a really easy, incredibly good, molten chocolate cake recipe. I originally saw it done on Martha Stewart years ago, and have been making it ever since to rave reviews. I usually make them before guests come, and keep them in a cool place until ready to bake. Make sure you use the best chocolate you can find.
