

Dear ,

Can you believe it's the end of June already? Please enjoy this week's newsletter. If you have a friend or two who might like the newsletter, why don't you suggest they sign up by forwarding this email? Or you can click the little envelope at the top right corner to send to a friend, Twitter, Facebook, or LinkedIn.

Thanks,
Anne

Top Three Food Magazines II: Paper or Electrons?

While writing about the Accidental Locavore's top three food magazines, the little voice in the back of my head kept saying, but how do people read food magazines? Are they schizophrenic like you, using both paper and e-reader versions? Do they stick to one format? Which one? What if you want to save a recipe from your e-reader (actually, if anyone can answer that, it would be great!)?

Recipe for Garlic Scape Pesto

Is pesto a summer staple for you? Like the flavored vinegars from last week, the Accidental Locavore thinks pesto can be made from a variety of (green) things. Since I had a mess of garlic scapes, thanks to my friend Bill, I thought they'd make a great pesto. This is more about technique (easy) and taste, than precise measurements.

New This Week:

June Desktop Wallpaper Calendar

This beautiful lettuce is spotted romaine from Eckkerton Hill Farm. Click here to download the Accidental Locavore's June Calendar.

To install it on Windows: Download and save the image where you can find it. Then: Control Panel/Personalization/Desktop Background and select the image. Or, just right click on the image and "Set as Desktop Background" Enjoy!

The Worst Meal Ever

The Accidental Locavore was part of a recent blog on Zagat.com about the worst meal ever (it's number 8).
