Two Favorite Thanksgiving Side Dishes

This year the Accidental Locavore snuck off to California and will actually be on an airplane for the big event. Which is not to say that I don't have your back in the kitchen come next Thursday. If you want to know how gravy can go wrong, check out my post for The Daily Meal. And if you're looking for a couple of delicious, no-fuss side dishes, here you go! The cranberry confit can even be made ahead. Recipes:

Why Do I Like Butchers?

Which do you eat more of, fish or meat? Almost every year, one of the Accidental Locavore's goals is to eat more fish. I like fish, like it a lot, but I don't cook it nearly as often as I cook meat. Part of that is due to the fact that while I know a lot of butchers and have great relationships with them, the same cannot be said about fishmongers. It may also be an issue with the product—perhaps because they're working with slippery, iced fish, somehow fishmongers never seem as affable as butchers.
