

Accidentallocavore®

Dear Friend,

Congrats to Lisette for her winning comment! A box of goat cheese will be heading her way shortly. Do you have food halls opening near you? I checked out the latest one in the city last week--how did it rate? And a throwback recipe-Vincent Price's guacamole, see how that turned out.

As always, I'd love it if you could spread the word and get your friends to sign up! Or you can click the icons above or below to send to a friend, share on Twitter, Facebook, or LinkedIn.

Enjoy!

Anne

Share

Food Halls vs. Food Courts, Is There a Difference?

Remind me and keep reminding me that the only difference between food halls and food courts are the slightly better-looking kiosks, tables and chairs, and the significantly higher prices. The Accidental Locavore was eagerly anticipating the opening of Vanderbilt Market at the north end of Grand Central for the chance to up my take-on-the-train lunches and/or have a place to meet people that was a little nicer than the basement of GC. Read more:

Vincent Price's Guacamole (aka Avocado Spread)

For those of you, of un âge certain, like the Accidental Locavore, the fact that Vincent Price authored a cookbook and a really good one, won't come as a surprise. The rest of you may have seen him in old Batman episodes or one of the many horror flicks he was known for, but did you know that he wrote one of the first celebrity cookbooks, A Treasury of Great Recipes? Get the recipe:

October Calendar

Apples I picked (from the golf course) for my apple relish to go with the French chèvres.

Download the Calendar:

Calendar